INTERVIEW BETWEEN PRINCE BISMARCK

AND COUNT ANDRASSY.

By Cale to the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 17.

The Times' correspondent at Vienna telegraphs as follows: "The interview between Prince Bismarek and Count Andrassy was due to Andrassy's wish to welcome Bismarek on Austrian territory. Although an exchange of ideas may probably influence the future policy of Austria and Germany, it is a fair inference from the personal character of the meeting that there is no intention of entering into any formal negotiation in regard to the Eastern question. No one here supposes that Count Andrassy goes to Salzburg with any scheme of mediation. From the recent curt denials by the German Seni-Official Press of reports concerning mediation there would seem to be little chance of Prince Bismarck making any such proposal."

BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT YESTERDAY

BASSION,

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18.

The Grand Ledge, I. O. O. F., convened at 9 o'clock. Several amendments to the constitution, proposed at the last annual session, came up in the regular order of business. The amendment proposing to pay least Grand Sires milescepe per diem was lost. The amendment to make Past Grand Sires representatives of the Order at large was hadefultely postponed. The amendment to substitute blennia! for "annual" session was laid over to next year. The greater portion of the morning session was passed in discussing the matter of mileage and per diem. The debate was taken part in by members generally, and on the conclusion, on a call of the yeas and mays, a resolution was adopted fixing mileage at tensons per mile one way and per diem at $0.

The committee on printing and supplies was authorized to have prepared and printed a second series of odes, with music, for the use of the lodges, and the same was authorized by the Grand Lodge as a part of the ceremonies of the Order.

A resolution was adopted permitting P. G. representatives to remain in the Grand Lodge in secret session for the day

The Grand Lodge then went into secret session, and, on resuming the regular business, adjourned to 9 o'clock to-morrow.

The following Past Grand Representatives were in attendance to-day: Schuyler Colfax, of Ind.; W. H. Clark, N. C.; J. J. Cathan, Ala; W. F. Slater, Ohio; Henry Lindenburgh, Ohio J. Norwood Clark, Iowa; E. Gover Cox, Baltimore and Hugh Latham.

A DAY SPENT IN HEARING THE TESTIMONY OF THREE WITMENSESS-PAGE, THE MEMPHIS BANKER, EXPLAINS HOW FUNDS WERE MANIPULATED BY PARKNAN, BROOKS & CO.—CHECKS DIAWN WITHOUT AUTHORITY IN THE NAME OF THE FIRM.

The space within the bar in the Criminal Court yesterday was well filled by the time the case of Sawyer et al. was reached.

District Attorney Wells. If your Honor please, now, in taking up this case, I desire to change the contemplated order of the testimony. There is a witness here, the president of a bank, under very peculiar circumstances. He is seconting his two daughters, who are about to enter Vassar college. He has to be at the college with them at the countenement of the term in order that they may be admitted. I therefore sak to put upon the stand Mr. Page, a witness who will testify in relation to certain transactions that need to be explained; and then we will countenee and take up the testimony of the filing of the claim in

The Court. I suppose an application of this kind is within the discretion of this court, and the Court can exercise the discretion that no injustice be done the defendants. I believe it has been said the testimony of this winess will relate to the inception of the claim. Does not the indictment aver it was a false claim?

Counsel for defendant. No, sir, no, sir.

District Attorney. Oh, yes; it does. It avers "cortain false claim, knowing it to be false."

The bonds were held as the property of Parkman, Brooks & Co., but as surely for the debt due by them to the bank. These bonds were afterwards sold in New York, and the proceeds bedd in the same manuer that the bonds had been. The witness explained at length the several transactions in relation to these bonds. The whole amount of these bonds was in excess of $500,000. The bank gained nothing but the exchange. The whole benefit of the bonds was that of Parkman, Brooks & Co. The sum obtained by sale of these bonds was a that of Parkman, Brooks & Co. The sum obtained by sale of these bonds was afterwards transferred to P. & R. as represented by Parkman & Brooks & Co., which were held by McGarth, the teller of the bank, witness being absent from Memphis. WHO KILLED CRAZY HORSE?

CHIEFTAIN'S DEATH.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received a letter from the Indian agent at Cump Robinson, Nebraska, giving a detailed account of the killing of Crazy Horse. The letter states that Crazy Horse was remarkably brave, generous and reticent—a pillar of strength for good or evil. He had a wonderful influence over young braves and chiefs. Every effort was made to secure his influence in preserving the peace, but failed. He would listen to no reasoning which did not have for a basis the placing of himself and people in the Northerz country to roam at large. He had become so vicious that upon General Cook's arrival at Camp Robinson he told his nen to go to the council prepared for a fight, as he intended to kill General C, which calamity, however, was averted by one of the Indians, who informed the agent of the contemplated murder.

Upon his arrival there he was told that he would be compelled to give up his arms and pistols. This he refused to do, and, although surrounded by scouts and soldiers, he attempted to cut his way out, stabbing "Little Big Man," who had hold of him, in the arm. In the senfile he was himself wounded, and from the effect of the wounded, and from the effect of the wounded, and by the was stabbed by the hayonet of a soldier. wound died at 11:40 that night. He said that he was stabbed by the bayonet of a soldier, but the doctor who examined his wound thinks that it was caused by his own knife. The Indians express relief at his death, and say that, besides those whom he had slain in battle, he had with his murderous hand, killed thirty-four white men and four women. The affair at first created a great deal of ex-citement among the Indians, but it has since died away.

THE AMERICAN TRON WORKS MEN RETURN TO WORK AT THE OLD WAGES. By Associated Fress.

The strike at the American Iron works of Jones & McLaughlin ended this evening, the men resuming work at the old wages. These works have been idle for eight weeks, and by this action of the strikers in withdrawing their demands 1,500 to 2,000 men will resume to morrow morning. The strike was work to morrow morning. The strike was inaugurated on the Tuesday following the riot, at which time the mills were running full, and was due largely to the excitement of that week. The strikers saked for an advance of twenty-five per cent. on all day labor, JEFFERSONVILLE, IND., Sept. 18.

Never before in the history of Jeffersonville has such an immense crowd of people througed the city as was to-day gathered to welcome and give hospitable greeting to the President of the United States. At 3 p. m. the President of the United States. At 3 p. m. the President and party and a number of other distinguished invited guests arrived from Louisville. Ten thousand people met them at the city

Prof. Chase, the principal of the school, $de-livered an address of welcome, which was responded to by the President. Short addresses were also made by Secretary Evarts, Secretary McCrary, Secretary Thompson and Postmaster General Key. The Central Colored School was next visited. Trustee J. H. Shreley made the address of welcome, and Horace Morris, a colored man, also spoke in the same strain. Exercises in music, vocal and instrumental, followed, and also general readings by the children. In speaking here the President said:

Leaving the Central colored school, the carriage drove up Broadway, passing the Third ward school-house, where the children were all assembled, as in other schools, and greeted the party with songs and shouts. The party next visited the blind saylun. The blind people were singing a chorus of welcome in the room set apart for the exercises. After the party were seated Dr. T. B. Bell, president of the institute, advanced toward the President and spoke to him concerning the saylum, its mater and the great good it has accomplished.

Anything like a just description of the streets and houses as they appeared in their decorative splendor to-night is impossible to give. At the Exposition to-night the President, Wade Hampton, Secretaries McCrary, Thompson, Evarts and Pestmaster General Key again spoke before an audience of immense magnitude.

The President replied in a brief speech, followed by Secretary Evarts, Secretary McCrary and Gim. Key. The Presidential delegation leaves to-morrow manning for Nashville. A number of Kentuckians and journalists from all sections accompany them.
